

Dear Parents, Carers and Staff,

Last term we wrote to you informing you of the exciting decision we took to form a formal partnership between Hugh Myddelton Primary School and Winton Primary School. We are delighted to tell you that the launch of this partnership took place on the 2nd September at Sadler's Wells and was attended by The Worshipful, The Major of Islington, local councillors and local authority officers. The name of the partnership is The Learning Quarter Partnership.

As you already know, being in a formal partnership will have very little impact on the day-to-day life of the pupils in each school. However, it will allow for many more strategic opportunities to enrich the quality of education for all pupils in both schools moving into the future.

We can confirm that the two separate governing boards have been dissolved and a new, single governing board has been formed with the two Chairs of Governors, James Court and Dan Allen, co-chairing for the next year. We can also confirm that Ms Nathalie Parker is the Executive Head Teacher of the Learning Quarter Partnership and that Mr Tim Barber and Mrs Claire Brown will remain Heads of School in Hugh Myddelton and Winton School respectively.

It is a very exciting time in the lives of Winton and Hugh Myddelton and the governors will be meeting regularly to ensure that the partnership, the two schools and the education your child receives goes from strength to strength.

Yours faithfully,

Dan Allen and James Court
Co-Chairs of Governors
The Learning Quarter Partnership
